Fires In San Jacinto Mountains Under Control After Hard Fight

(By United Press Leased Wire)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Thousands of acres of California forests were being burned over today as the second serious outbreak of fire this season approached its climax.

A total of nine fires, most of them in the northern part of the state, were being fought by nearly 2,000 men after the flames had broken from control again late yesterday afternoon.

The town of Susanville, Lassen county, was snatched from the flames last night after four houses on the outskirts had been destroyed. So serious had the situation there become before control was accomplished, that patients were removed from the county hospital and many residents fled the town. Three quarries, mills and a score of cabins and buildings were burned in the Whitlock mining district of Mariposa county by a fire which for a time threatened the town of Mariposa.

In Butte county 30 miles north of Oroville fire was running through timber holdings of the Hutchinson Lumber company today after burning a logging camp, $65,000 worth of lumbering equipment and much virgin timber.

The Crystal Creek fire in Siskiyou county was expected to be controlled early today, according to reports received from State Forester M. B. Pratt. Many farms were saved in this section when a strong wind turned the flames. Timberlands of the Fruit Growers' Supply company were in the path of the flames which were spreading in the Beaver Creek district of Klamath National forest today in the vicinity of Cinderbar Springs. A second fire in this district, near Soap Creek, was believed under control this morning.

The fire near Castle Crags Shasta county, was reported controlled again today after a furious outbreak late yesterday. This fire has been burning for more than a week and has taken heavy toll in ranch and timber property.

REPORT TWO NEW FIRES IN WASHINGTON

PORTLAND, Ore., July 29.—While forest fires west of the Cascade mountains today were reported satisfactorily under control, flames continued to be a menace in Eastern Washington and Oregon.

Two new fires broke out Monday in the forests of Eastern Washington. A blaze started in the Tieton basin, in the Rainier National forest, while another spread in the Colville forests near Republic.

SAN JACINTO MOUNTAIN BLAZE UNDER CONTROL

RIVERSIDE, July 29.—Two forest fires which have been raging in sections of the San Jacinto mountains since Saturday are either out or well under control.

The Baptiste canyon fire is extinguished, forestry service officials have reported, while the one on the south fork of the San Jacinto river is surrounded and will be out before night, it is believed.

Only brush has been burned over in each of the fires. Water sheds of the Hemet and San Jacinto valleys have not been damaged.

More than 150 men are still on guard, but the situation is believed well in hand.

YOUNG SLAYER LAYS ARREST TO STUMBLE

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, CHICAGO, July 29.—A stumble may plunge Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, the gallows for murdering Robert Franks, 14-year-old school boy.

In the documents containing the confessions, the reading of which was concluded today, Leopold is quoted as stating that he believed he lost his spectacles, which led to the arrests, when he stumbled in the duck while disposing of the body of Robert.

"There is only one way I can think of that I dropped the glasses," Leopold said. "I had them in my pocket at the time we were carrying the body to the culvert. I stumbled and the glasses must have fallen onto the ground."

Leopold's confession went over the ground frequently covered in State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe's "perfect hanging case. The confession showed how the boys discussed the kidnapping and murder last November, their plans for securing the ransom money and the method of escaping detection.

The reading of the documents, was concluded at 3:36 p. m. without the state resting its case as expected. Crowe said he had a witness who would be on the stand only five minutes. The witness worked all last night and was in bed today. Justice Caverly ordered court adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow with the statement that the state would rest its case five minutes after court convenes. Caverly also said he defense would open its case immediately after ward.

Charles Killefer, vice-president of the company organized to back Belcher in his aerial venture, stated that both the inventor and pilot declared, before the trial flight commenced, that the plane was in perfect condition.

Population Returns to Sao Paulo As Bloody Uprising Comes to End

(By United Press Leased Wire)
RIO DE JANEIRO, July 29.—Federal troops are bringing about order in Sao Paulo today and normal conditions are being restored.

Gov. Carlos De Campos has returned and taken up his position as head of the state government. Marital law continues, however.

The population of Sao Paulo, second city of Brazil, with 760,000 inhabitants when the rebellion started, has begun to return to its homes and rebuilding of ruined properties will be begun at once.

Damage to commerce from the rebellion will not be as extensive as might be expected, according to private messages. Huge stocks of coffee held in the interior of Sao Paulo state have not been disturbed and normal shipments to the United States which averaged upwards of $800,000 bags a month, can be resumed at once.

It is believed here the federal government will offer amnesty to the rank and file of the rebel troops but that all leaders will be executed summarily as rapidly as they are rounded up.

There was great jubilation in Rio, the federal capital, over the government victory, the population hailing President Bernardes as a hero.

The main column of the rebel troops, which evacuated Sao Paulo yesterday, appears to have escaped into the interior, although this is not confirmed by today's official communiques, which merely say: "The revolutionary leaders have escaped, but the government has ordered their capture."

It is assumed here that the rebels are disbanding and fleeing toward the wild country of the interior of Matto Grosso.

The morning newspaper Gazeta de Noticias publishes a message from its Sao Paulo correspondent, saying:

"The rebels fled in disorder after they had been defeated on all fronts. Joao Francisco, one of the principal revolutionary commanders, was wounded but made his escape. He is closely pursued, however, and his capture is expected momentarily."

HIGHLAND, Ill., July 29.—Between $30,000 and $40,000 was obtained by six bandits who held up the First National bank here this afternoon. Bank officials said the exact amount of cash taken could not be fixed for several hours.

The robbers forced Assistant Cashier Earl Malam, the only man in the bank, into the vault after locking the cashier's cage. Some valuables were taken from the vault.

The bandits escaped in a large touring car, exchanging shots with men who attempted to stop them. None was injured.

SEEK NURSE IN KIDNAPING OF OHIO CHILD

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CLEVELAND, July 29.—A nation-wide hunt was instituted by police here today for five-year-old Dorothy May Blanchard and Mrs. Phoebe Woods, 50, a nurse, charged with kidnapping little Dorothy.

A strong maternal instinct, dammed up through an unrequited passion for a child led the nurse to kidnap the child, police said they believed.

Mrs. Woods had been caring for Dorothy while the mother, Mrs. Margaret Blanchard, who had separated from her husband five months ago worked to earn enough money to go to her husband's parents in Newark, N. J.

Saturday Mrs. Blanchard told Mrs. Woods she would leave for Newark Monday and take Dorothy with her. Mrs. Woods asked permission to take Dorothy down town and buy her a present.

Neither the child nor the nurse have been seen since. A warrant charging Mrs. Woods with kidnapping was sworn out today.

SHERIFF HALTS YOUNG LOVERS AFTER CHASE

(By United Press Leased Wire)
MONTROSE, Colo., July 29.—A romance and ride rivaling that of young Lochinvar came to an abrupt end here late yesterday afternoon when Sheriff Samuel Phillips and a posse took Lochinvar into custody and turned the girl back to her parents.

But while it lasted it was a romance to thrill the heart of any girl. Wayman Welk, 19, of Pueblo, followed the parents of his sweetheart, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swearingner, a distance of 200 miles, and when the opportune moment came, held them at bay at the point of a gun and escaped back toward Pueblo with the girl he loved.

Mr. and Mrs. Swearingner had objected to the attention Welk was paying their daughter Gladys. To nip the unwelcome romance, they started on an overland trip to California, taking their daughter with them. A note passed from Welk to the girl in a restaurant at Colorado Springs, received an assenting nod and Welk prepared for the abduction.

At the Blue River canyon near this city, Welk, driving a stripped down auto, overtook his intended in-law. While he held them at bay with his gun, Gladys climbed into his car and the two started for the nearest minister.

Instead of a minister, the sweethearts ran into Sheriff Phillips and his posse. A telephone call from the father had done the trick. Now the father had back with her the daughter and the journey to California continues. Welk was released this morning after promising to be good and is on his way back to his home in Colorado Springs.

FRANCE BOWS TO PLAN OF BANKERS

Herriot Opens Way For German Loan By Agreeing to Quit Ruhr

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LONDON, July 29.—Under pressure from an American-British banking group, France has yielded to separate action and Premier Herriot proposes to offer Military evacuation of the Ruhr on October 15, according to reliable information from unquestionable sources today.

This is regarded as the turning point in the inter-allied reparations conference, which now only awaits a formal offer from France to this effect before going ahead with the machinery of the experts' plan.

The anticipated French proposal is being jealously guarded with the utmost secrecy in the meantime. The French delegation still is working on it and it will not be ready until late tonight when it will be circulated among the delegates.

In return, France wants absolute priority to the first 26 billion gold francs collected as reparations under the Dawes-McKenna plan.

The figures named by the French, 26 billion gold francs, covers the remaining cost of restoring the French devastated regions. The proposal is certain to arouse a storm of protest from the Belgians, Italians and all smaller nations who have a claim to reparations. The British may object and even the cost of the United States army of occupation, which had a certain priority, would be prejudiced.

The presence of the French in the Ruhr had been the main stumbling block to acquiescence by the banking groups in the proposed terms of an international loan to Germany. Now Herriot is about to offer to get out—for 26 billion gold francs.

The French also will safeguard themselves by putting in a clause in the formula providing for appeal to arbitration against majority decisions on sanctions.

WOULD FAILS TO WIN S. A. SYMPATHY

Court, In Stipulating Boy's Parents Send Fare, Says He's Glad of Shooting

If the parents of Wallace Berry, so-called "buckshot thief," send him funds to pay his way back to his home at Mesa, Ariz., he will get probation in connection with a charge of attempting to commit second degree burglary, Superior Judge J. B. West decided here today.

Furthermore, Judge West isn't sorry, he admitted, that Berry received a charge of buckshot in his back when about to loot the chickens of M. C. Chase, at Cypress, one night recently.

The judge was entirely unsympathetic today when Berry's attorney explained that Berry had already been rather severely punished, having been shot by Chase.

"So long as it didn't permanently injure him, I'm glad you did get that charge of buckshot, young man," said Judge West.

Imposes Condition.

"I find it hard to blame any man that shoots a chicken thief or anyone prowling around his premises at night," the court added.

The court decided to grant Berry probation after questioning him and receiving the recommendation of District Attorney A. P. Nelson that such a course be taken. But the court wanted to be sure that Berry would leave the state and return to his home. He instructed Attorney H. L. Dearing, representing Berry, to write the youth's parents informing them of the situation and the condition attached by the court.

The hearing, meanwhile, was postponed to Friday, August 8, at 9:30 a. m. Should Berry's parents respond before then, the matter will be concluded at once, it was decided.

HITS SECRET BUZZER

Berry ran foul of the law when he began to loot Chase's corral and stumbled into an electric wire connected with Chase's bedroom. A buzzer awoke Chase, who ran forth with his shotgun and fired at a dim figure he saw in the yard.

Next day a youth appeared at a Los Angeles hospital and surgeons picked a large quantity of shot out of his back. Subsequent investigation by local authorities identified him as the visitor at Chase's home. He eventually admitted his connection with the affair.

Today a charge of burglary was reduced to a charge of attempt to commit second degree burglary, to which Berry pleaded guilty.

INTERIOR BUREAU SAVES $37,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The interior department will spend $37,037,716 less during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, than it did during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, according to a tabulation of appropriations just completed.

This reduction, one of the largest ever made in the history of the department, represents a net saving, the total appropriations for all the bureaus of the department in 1925 being $290,493,724 as compared with $327,531,440 in 1924.

The biggest decrease in a single bureau of the department was in the pension office, where the appropriation for pensions was reduced by $30,500,000. A reduction of considerable size was for Alaska territorial government and the Alaskan railroad, the saving amounting to $1,696,630.

Appropriations for the reclamation bureau were also reduced from $12,250,612 in 1924 to $10,556,000 in 1925, a reduction of $1,694,612, while appropriations for the bureau of Indian affairs were cut down by $468,484. St. Elizabeth's hospital located in Washington also had decreased appropriations to the amount of $138,500.

There were increases in the appropriations of a number of bureaus of the interior department, the largest being $413,315 for the patent office.

Girl Fearing School Test Ends Own Life

SAN JOSE, Calif., July 29.—Worry over approaching examinations caused the suicide here today of Miss Inea Lutz, 21, student at the San Jose State Teachers college.

Night and day for more than a week the girl had labored to prepare herself for the tests, which were to start today. All night last night a light burned in her room and then, shortly after dawn, a shot was heard.

Her parents found the girl lying near her study table. She had shot herself through the temple with a .22 caliber rifle which lay nearby, apparently dying instantly.

La Follette Charges Big Interests With Blocking Report of Tariff Body.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A charge that representatives of the sugar interests have delayed the final report of the United States tariff commission on the costs of sugar production by bringing pressure "through the highest official channels of this government" was made today in a statement by Senator La Follette, independent candidate for president.

La Follette did not identify the "highest official channels" of the government, but said that the sugar interests have attempted to intimidate members of the tariff commission and otherwise obstruct the action of that body.

HUGE LOSS FACED IN PLAGUE

Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi Make Appeals For Help

DISEASE TAKING BIG HUMAN TOLL

6000 Head of Stock Reported Dead As Disease Spreads Rapidly

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 29.—Twenty persons, mostly negroes, and over six thousand head of cattle are reported dead in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi from anthrax.

Additional government expert help has been rushed to Mississippi, where Governor Whitfield reports eight persons and 5,000 head of cattle dead and no signs of the scourge ending.

State, federal and local officers have combined in desperate efforts to check the scourge, which is reported spreading with alarming rapidity.

Nine farmers and more than 5,000 animals was the death toll in twelve stricken centers in Arkansas alone.

Governor Whitfield of Mississippi sent for federal aid when reports of the deaths of eight persons and 5,000 cattle were received at the executive office. Federal and state farm experts were rushed to the plague stricken sections.

In Tennessee an anthrax conference was called by officials of the state to organize for a fight on the plague, and telegrams were sent to Washington requesting emergency appropriations from congress.

Local authorities, meanwhile, are fighting the disease with limited facilities and funds. Strict quarantine measures have been adopted.

In twenty-eight counties in Mississippi the animals were reported dying faster than they could be buried. Negroes refused to bury the dead animals for fear of contracting the disease.

In Arkansas dead animals and the wagons on which they are moved are required to be burned. All persons capable of administering antitoxins to the animals have been pressed into service.

The disease is spread by the dead carcasses through flies, dogs and vultures, according to authorities, who are making a complete survey of the situation in the three states.

JURY GETS ORANGE DESK LIQUOR CASE

The case against Henry Schaffert, Orange, charged with possessing intoxicating liquor, was given to a jury shortly before noon today in the justice court of G. W. Ingle of Orange. At noon the jury went to lunch without reaching a verdict.

Schaffert was alleged by officers to have kept a supply of liquor in his desk at his downtown Orange office. On the stand he maintained that he always left his office open and any liquor that Orange officers may have found in his desk must certainly have been placed there by some one else.

Horace Greer of Los Angeles was counsel for Schaffert. City Attorney L. P. Coburn of Orange pressed the charge.

ELOPEMENT CAUSE OF PARENTS' IRE?

Leroy Victor Gruwell, 22, son of P. W. Gruwell, a prominent real estate broker of Riverside, incurred parental displeasure when he eloped to this city July 21 with Miss Alberta Ford, 18, also of that city, and married her, it was indicated today when reporters at the Gruwell home sought to interview the bride.

"I have nothing to say," the bridegroom's father is reported to have stated. The bride, also at Riverside, declined to deny or affirm that she had been married to young Gruwell.

The Rev. W. E. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, married the young couple. The bridegroom was president of the student body of the Polytechnic high school, Riverside, last year. The bride was a senior in the Girls' high school there. Both graduated at the end of the term last year.

LIVELY CLASHES MARK SLANDER SUIT TRIAL

Efforts made by the defense to "grill" Lew H. Wallace, Newport Beach banker and city official, drew fire today in the trial of the $50,000 slander suit brought by Wallace against Lee Pfau of Balboa, which was resumed here in Department 2 of the superior court, Judge R. Y. Williams presiding.

Counsel for Pfau, seeking to prove accusations of graft and dishonesty asserted to have been made by Pfau against Wallace, found difficulty in making progress with the banker's cross-examination. Rulings of the court, repeatedly sustaining objections to the line of questioning pursued by the defense, aroused Judge R. T. Lightfoot of defense counsel to make remarks that led to several clashes with the court. Acerbity flavored these tilts, on one occasion the attorney flatly contradicting the court in taking exception to a ruling. As a result, a tense atmosphere attended the proceedings.

Wallace was summoned to the stand today for the fourth time, Pfau's attorneys renewing their examination of the witness who was subjected to a long period of questioning yesterday afternoon. The examination dealt with Wallace's activities as secretary of the harbor commission and turned today to his handling of Newport Beach municipal funds as city treasurer.

Interest Matter Explained
Questioned regarding the asserted depositing of city funds without interest in the bank of which Wallace is president, the witness explained that the bank compensated the city by providing office space, equipment, typewriters, stenographic service and gave value in other ways, without making charges of any sort.

Several times Judge Williams halted the examination or upheld objections, telling the attorney that the ground had been previously covered and that there was no use going over it again. Once the court said:

"We spent three hours on that subject yesterday and I'm not going to spend three hours more today on it."

Judge Lightfoot promptly took exception, asking that the court's remark be assigned as error. "Such a remark is highly prejudicial to the defendant," declared Lightfoot. "We did not take three hours on the subject yesterday. I think the record will show."

Later Judge Lightfoot took exception to a remark of the court in allowing Wallace to explain a matter brought out by the defense.

Court Addresses Jury
"This matter has gone into the record by innuendo and insinuation," the court stated, "and the witness should be allowed to explain," stated the court.

The defense objected to the suggestion of innuendo and insinuation as "leaving an unfavorable impression on the jury."

Apparently out of patience, Judge Williams turned to the jury and explained that there was no need for an unfavorable impression to arise from the court's remarks, which were to be disregarded by the jury, and also that it was necessary for the court to use its judgment and discretion in seeing that a trial was conducted in an orderly and proper manner.

Defense counsel directed a portion of its questioning today to interests acquired by Wallace in property adjacent to the harbor, both before and after the harbor commission was organized. Wallace explained several such transactions, saying he had nothing to conceal. Pfau had charged that Wallace had taken advantage of his position as secretary of the harbor commission to benefit his personal interests while neglecting the public interests.

SPEED REGULATOR PUT ON BROADWAY

NEW YORK, July 29.—New York's "Great White Way," long famous for all varieties of "speed" and speeders, is now under the supervision of a speed regulator. Three colored lights blink intermittently from authoritative copper boxes at strategic points. Red, yellow or green signals tell the world thereabouts when to "step on the gas" and when to step off it.

All of Broadway's busy section is under the new system of traffic control. Not only has it tamed the "roarin' Forties," but it has dignified the roll of city travel between the Battery and 86th street. Eventually it will extend all the way to 242nd St.

Copper boxes containing electric signal lights have been commandingly located above the famous thoroughfare at six-block intervals and are clearly visible. The three lights are operated under the same system and at the same intervals as those in the bronze traffic towers along Fifth avenue, North and south bound traffic moves continuously for one and one-half minutes and east and west bound traffic for forty seconds, with ten second halts between changes. Traffic policemen at the various street intersections use their whistles in harmony with the new light-flashing system and guide movements of vehicles which desire to turn from or into the main stream of traffic.

Broadway as a pathway for fast movers who were wont to have their own ideas of speed is no more. The fact that the signal boxes are of copper indicates that the brakes have been put on Broadway speed to stay put.

6 Months to Live; Wanted Big Thrill; So She Got Well

LONDON, July 26.—The doctors told Lady Richmond Brown that she had six months to live.

"All right," she said. "If my life has to go, I want to go with a flourish. If I have to die I want to die with a thrill. I don't want to sit down and wait for my life to ebb away."

So Lady Richmond Brown, thinking herself doomed by an incurable disease, joined the Mitchell-Herges exploring party, bound for uncharted regions of Central and South America. She intended to have thrills before she died.

She had the thrills. The party endured many hardships, and passed through many perils—and Lady Richmond Brown got as fit and well as a prizefighter, and didn't die at all, and has just landed back in London to tell her friends all about the Kaymallas, unmapped islands of the Caribbean, and the strange city of Chucuna, a monument to a forgotten civilization, which they found in the interior of British Honduras.

"No, the average modern girl couldn't go through such hardships," she said. "Too many of our girls today have become dolls. They are not made of the right sort of stuff. They are slaves of the now, der-puff. The girl might make up her mind to die with the thrill, but she would get it at the Palais de Dance."

POLICE PUZZLE IN DOUBLE SHOOTING

NEW YORK, July 29.—Detectives are continuing efforts to get at the bottom of a double shooting two blocks from police headquarters.

Hearing pistol shots, Patrolman William Harrington of the Oak station, traced them to 186 Elizabeth street. He found one man lying on the sidewalk with a bullet wound in his back and another man a short distance away, wounded in the side. After both men had been taken to Bellevue hospital, reserves from the Oak station restored order among excited residents of the neighborhood.

In the hospital the man shot in the back said he was Joseph De Vito, 27 years old, of 125 Elizabeth street. The other said he was Logachio Nofiro, 35, of 166 Elizabeth street.

Efforts of Detective Joseph Kemp, of the Oak street station, to learn the cause of the shooting were futile. No pistol was found on either of the men or in the vicinity. The men said they had never seen each other before and did not know who shot them.

Although the vicinity where the shooting took place is thickly populated, no one would admit seeing the affray.

OIL WORKER KILLED BY FALLING PLANK

(By United Press Leased Wire)
WHITTIER, July 29.—Hurting down from the top of a high derrick in the Montebello oil fields, a 2x12 plank struck William H. Norton, 35, an oil worker, on top of the head today, killing him instantly.

Without warning, the board crashed to the ground. Norton was standing directly under it and received the full impact of the blow. His skull was crushed.

The body was brought here, where an inquest will be held. A widow and two children survive.

NOISES FOUND DETRIMENTAL TO HEALTH

NEW YORK, July 29.—In addition to causing deafness, noises and vibration in industrial plants and business houses cause a serious impairment of working capacity, according to Dr. Leo K. Krankel in the "Health of the Worker," a book just published for the national health council.

"Noise, especially when it recurs frequently at irregular intervals, may require the readjustment of the worker's whole nervous system," the physician states. "It tends to distract attention; require more intense mental application; cause irritation and nervousness; induce insomnia, and it may be the cause of such weariness that it impairs the working capacity even more than severe muscular strain."

Dr. Frank points out that volume of sound has less effect than quality. Deafness, for instance, sometimes caused to the members of a firing squad of a big gun in a turret, usually is only temporary, while 45 per cent of railway engineers, who have been employed for a number of years, suffer more or less from deafness. Boiler makers and those engaged in riveting for a long period of time practically never escape injury. Here vibration is as harmful as noise.

Noise produced in a small enclosed space is particularly damaging to the auditory nerve. Loss of hearing later in life often dates back to the apprentice days of the worker who, as boys, were sent into the boilers to catch the rivets and were subjected to the intense noise of hammering while inside the cylinder.

U. S. AVIATORS PLAN TO DEFY BAD WEATHER

BROUGH, England, July 29.—

The American airmen will push on, probably Thursday, with their world flight, even if the present inclement weather holds and they are forced to fly dangerously low over the sea on their way to the Orkneys, Lieut. Lowell Smith, commanding the round the world expedition, said today. Trial flights will be made tomorrow.

The airplanes are cleaned and freshly varnished and spick and span as when they started from Santa Monica. The British experts have been amazed to see the flyers devoting virtually all the daylight hours for the past twelve days to personally supervising the refitting and cleaning of the machines.

Lieut. Smith and his comrades even sidetracked King George's recent garden party at Buckingham palace in favor of an afternoon tinkering with their planes, asking his majesty to excuse them as they were accepting no invitations.

The United States produces nearly one-half of the world's supply of zinc.

Ice is not cold enough

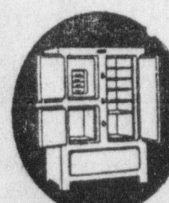

To Keep Food Fresh

Ice is not cold enough to keep the food you eat as it should be kept. The average temperature of the ordinary ice-box rarely gets below 55 degrees and rises as the ice melts, causing food to spoil rapidly.

The Frigidaire cooling coil is equivalent to a 200 pound cake of ice—it is 12 degrees colder than ice and never melts.

Frigidaire—electric refrigeration—provides a constant safeguard to health.

'GIVE ME U. S. A.' SCHOLAR TELLS ENGLISH

LONDON, July 25.—W. C. Greene, an American Rhodes scholar at Oxford university, has handed England a jolt by declaring that the more he sees of the British Isles the better he loves the United States.

Englishmen cannot understand it. They are gasping with astonishment and, as usual, writing letters to the newspapers to express their complete mystification that anyone should manifest such an attitude.

Greene was called upon to reply to a toast proposed by Rudyard Kipling at the annual dinner of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust. He was the focus of a battery of ever-widening eyes as he boldly told the banqueters that figuratively speaking, all the "hands-across-the-seas" talk gave him a "pain in the neck."

"Oxford and England and Europe," Greene told his astonished listeners, "have only made us (Rhodes scholars) love America more. We become more American every day that we are here. We are sick of handshaking across the seas."

"We do not go home with regrets. Whatever may have been the unexpressed desires of Cecil Rhodes in laying the foundation of these scholarships, if he meant us to love another nation, if he meant us to become apostles of that great creed for which Mr. Kipling labored so long and so finely, we must deny his hopes."

"Long ago we resigned our position as unofficial ambassadors. We go home gladly and eagerly to a nation which we know and love and understand, if often we cannot admire it. We go home with some appreciation of duty and appreciation of human life. Some day, perhaps, something of us may amount to something if the life of idleness has not become too strong."

"Europe and Oxford have brought death to us of our dreams, our romance and our hopes that here we would find three years of life, of continuous strangeness and duty. Romance is dead in us and the gray, unbeautiful buildings of Oxford have become just old-fashioned buildings and oftentimes prisons both of the soul and body. Oxford has not been Elysium, nor has our experience of the continent."

"But two things have come to a good many of us. We have learned the plain, old-fashioned, prehistoric antediluvian joy of just sitting down. We have come to see that idleness and idleness of the body are not terms of contempt."

"We have also come to see the need of the new attitude toward the state. We go home, many of us, with the secret hope that some day we may enter the politics of our own country and perhaps breathe in the slow amalgam of our nation the recognition of social truth which has been enunciated so many times and so vainly in the last 2000 years, which we with our younger ears, though older ones seem often unable to do so, can hear."

MOTHER FIGHTS TO RECOVER HER BABY

NEW YORK, July 29.—Margaret Verdin, slender, but defiant, young mother, was fighting in the Jersey City court of chancery for the custody of her baby she gave up. Mrs. Beulah Hollander, wife of a prominent Hudson county lawyer, is employing every legal means to regain the child, baby Verdin, now a chubby girl of seven months, in the meanwhile remains with her foster mother.

Desperation brought about by destitution compelled Margaret Verdin in February to seek aid at the office of the Hoboken Legal Aid society. Her husband had run off, leaving her with three children, one a baby. Penniless, she begged women in charge to help her.

To the home of Mrs. Hollander at 28 Liberty Place, Weehawken, the tired, hopeless mother went with her baby. The wife of the lawyer was pleased, she said, to relieve the young woman of the care of the child. Mrs. Verdin, here heart torn by the separation from her baby, found solace in the fact that the child was receiving food and good care.

The mother contends she informed the child's foster mother that she would return for her baby when she had earned sufficient funds to care for it. That was five months ago.

Three weeks ago the mother wrote Mrs. Hollander announcing that she was ready to take the child back, having earned and saved some money and that she was planning to return to the home of her people at Orkney Island, Scotland.

Next, she alleges, she went to the Hollander home and was informed that Mrs. Hollander had "gone to the country" with the baby. Then she made another attempt to see her baby, but this proved futile. Finally she telephoned Mrs. Hollander, and was informed, she alleges, that Mrs. Hollander would refuse to give up the child. The suit for the baby's custody was promptly instituted.

Mrs. Hollander has introduced in the proceedings a piece of paper bearing an agreement which she contends represents the young mother's consent to surrender all claims to the baby and place it with Mrs. Hollander for adoption. Mrs. Verdin denies any such intention.

TELLS OF EXTENDING TAX PAYMENT TIME

Numerous inquiries have been received by Collector Rex B. Goodcell at Los Angeles as to whether the commissioner of internal revenue may, under the new revenue act, extend the time for the payment of deficiencies in income taxes according to Thad A. Davis, deputy stationed, who today stated Goodcell's answer was as follows:

"The authority of the commissioner to grant extensions of time for the payment of deficiencies in tax is contained in Section 274 which gives the commissioner authority, with the approval of the secretary, to grant an extension of time not exceeding eighteen months for the payment of a deficiency in tax (not due to negligence, intentional disregard of regulations or to fraud with intent to evade tax) when it is shown to his satisfaction that payment within the prescribed time will result in undue hardship to the taxpayer. Where an extension is granted, interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum is collectible on the deficiency for the period of the extension and no other interest is collectible on such deficiency for that period."

"If the application is tentatively approved by the commissioner and a bond is required it must be filed with the collector within ten days after notification by the commissioner that a bond is necessary. The bond must be conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency and applicable penalties, if any, together with interest in accordance with the terms of the extension to be granted and must be executed by a surety company, holding a certificate of authority from the secretary of the treasury as an acceptable surety on federal bonds and it shall be subject to the approval of the commissioner. In lieu of such a bond the taxpayer may file a bond secured by deposit of Liberty bonds or other bonds or notes of the United States equal in their total par value to the amount of the deficiency and applicable penalties, if any, and interest."

$500 Judgment Is Sought in Action

Judgment for $500 was asked in a suit on file today in the superior court here, L. A. Birchley appearing as plaintiff against L. G. Kellogg and the Agricola Central company, Ltd.

The plaintiff, represented by Attorney Kenneth H. Burns, alleged that the defendants procured $500 from him April 11, 1923, and have not repaid the amount.

75-Cent Bill Is Center in Suit

Possession of a small coupe, on judgment for $325 as an alternative, was asked today in a superior court action filed here by the Federal Finance company, this city, against the Seal Beach garage.

The finance company claimed that the garage was holding the car on account of a bill of seventy-five cents for repairs. The garage had refused an offer of payment, it was alleged.

Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus represent the plaintiff.

2 CARS STOLEN, 2 STRIPPED OF TIRES HERE

Two automobiles and a bicycle were stolen and two cars were stripped of tires in Santa Ana last night, it was reported today at police headquarters.

The large enclosed automobile of Harold J. Donnell, 505 South Van Ness avenue, was taken by thieves at 11:30 p. m., yesterday, from Broadway between Third and Fourth streets. The car was virtually new, Donnell told the police.

While R. L. The machine was locked when taken. Early this morning a Santa Fe train crew notified the police that a car without tires was abandoned near Alto station, three miles south east of Santa Ana. Officers who investigated said the stripped car was the one stolen from Loucks last night.

While Robert Shinn of 517 West Second street was attending a motion picture theater yesterday afternoon, his bicycle was stolen from the curb at Fourth and Birch street, according to the police.

CARDEN TO RETIRE FROM CLOTHING CO.

A change in the local retail business world was forecast today by the announcement of the dissolution of the firm of Hill and Carden, clothing, at the conclusion of the sale which this firm will launch tomorrow morning.

L. S. Hill has purchased the interest of Lester L. Carden and will become sole owner of the Santa Ana store and half owner of the Pasadena and Whittier stores.

Carden's retirement from the firm is caused by his desire to get away from the confinement of store work—a step made necessary by a six months' siege of illness which he suffered the first part of this year. Carden's plans for the future are undecided.

The firm of Hill and Carden began business fourteen years ago at its present Fourth street location with a limited stock and floor space. Today the floor space in the Santa Ana store has been doubled and the business has been multiplied seven times, and the two stores at Pasadena and Whittier both have large retail businesses.

DISINCORPORATION OF STANTON VOTED

Officials of Stanton today were conferring on plans for disincorporation of the municipality, following a meeting of the city council held last night when an order was made declaring that more than two-thirds of the voters recently favored such a step, according to an official canvass of the returns.

The council adjourned to two weeks from last night, when it was expected the official business of the city would be closed and a report prepared for submission to the board of supervisors, according to H. C. Head of this city, city attorney for Stanton.

A lot on which the city hall stands and other real and personal property owned by the city has been sold, Head said, and all bills owing by the municipality will be paid at the meeting two weeks hence.

Stanton was incorporated twelve years ago to prevent Anaheim's locating its sewer farm on a piece of property that was included in the city limits when incorporation was voted.

SLAYING NOTE SEEN AS RUSE BY POLICE

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, July 29.—A sprawling, misspelled note found in a bottle washed onto the shore at Long Beach and purporting to be a confession of the murder of Charles Chapman, Los Angeles insurance man, for whose death three men are sentenced to hang, was being investigated by the police today.

"This is Xmas day and I cannot stand it any longer. Those three young men did not do it of course. Kindly I did it as ever a water rat," is part of the note signed by Waldo Waterhouse (or "Walterhouse").

"Smoky John" Geregias, Jack Ferdinand and John Sears are the three men sentenced to die. At their trial which began January 15, they were positively identified by four witnesses as the bandits guilty of the crime.

While the note is taken to specifically refer to the Chapman murder, police are inclined to regard it with skepticism.

Each day on the average nearly 15,000,000 bananas are consumed in the United States.

Anaheim Woman Injured in Crash

Mrs. E. H. Genley of Anaheim, was injured at 6 p. m. yesterday when she was thrown from her automobile, which collided with the car driven by William Reberger of Laguna Beach, according to a report made at the sheriff's office here.

According to Reberger, who took Mrs. Genley to her home, where she was given prompt medical aid, a misunderstanding regarding right of way on the main highway between Anaheim and Fullerton caused the drivers to steer their machines together. Mrs. Genley's car, he said, cut around his machine at a crossroad.

The extent of Mrs. Genley's injuries was not reported. Both cars were slightly damaged.

News Notes of Interest To Women

Future Prosperity of Santa Ana Suggested In Stirring Talk

That Santa Ana lies within one of the three small "white spots" of the nation in the present period of financial depression under which the entire country is struggling, was the cheering news conveyed to business and professional women yesterday by one of the most interesting speakers of the season, Robert E. Brown, discussing "Industrial Santa Ana" at the weekly luncheon at St. Ann's Inn.

That Santa Ana's remaining within the charmed circle and her future growth and continued prosperity were largely dependent upon the establishment in the city of desirable industries, was pointed out by the speaker who as an investment broker was largely responsible for bringing to this city its newest industry, the Standard American Glass company.

"Prosperity of Santa Ana and of Orange county has been founded upon an excellent agricultural basis," declared the speaker. "But it is a recognized fact that a city must necessarily be limited in size when it depends upon agriculture alone and Orange county has not enough agricultural facilities to warrant the presence within its borders of so many small cities including one the size of our own."

"The only possible hope then for consistent growth is by the establishment of industries such as we may welcome and be proud of, such industries as will bring a splendid class of citizens, educated workmen whose families will appreciate excellent school and church conditions, plus the manifold climatic advantages of the southland."

"It is true that all the larger cities are established upon an industrial basis unless we except Los Angeles. And that city too may be included if we list motion picture firms as industries. But Los Angeles is rousing to the need of other and more varied interests and is making a bid for the industries that are bound to be established on the coast. However we as a city may successfully compete with Los Angeles since in many cases the captains of industry prefer establishing new ventures in a smaller city where their men are free from the distractions offered by a large place."

"It is true that some families, seeking this city for its well-known advantages as a residential town, deplore the coming of larger industries, claiming it will spoil the residential possibilities. That is a mistake, for the loss of sight of the city that the people employed by the industry, would choose in order to be near their work."

Mr. Brown cited European conditions as an augury of unprecedented prosperity for the future, stating that Europe, suffering an illness for the past ten years beginning with the World War, had reached the stage in convalescence when aid was necessary. With the United States proffering that aid, all to return in increased business for the nation, results will be such prosperity as we have never dreamed of, not only in Europe but in South America as well. The Daves plan now under consideration by Europe is most important in its bearing on future prosperity, the speaker stated.

Returning to local conditions, Mr. Brown told interesting little details concerning the bringing of business to the city, and cited the harbor as a big asset now under development. He asked that any hint of receding any member of the industry for the past ten years be reported promptly, declaring that the merest inkling of a proposed change often led to big results.

The members of the club listened with the close attention of business women interested in the business future of their home city. The usual number of members joined in the pleasant occasion but there were no guests.

Miss Mabel McFadden, president, announced a pleasant affair for Wednesday night, July 23, when a picnic supper will be held at the home of Mrs. Susan Rutherford, Balboa. All are to meet at the McFadden Hardware store at 5:30 o'clock, and members having cars will provide a way for others to go. Each is expected to take sandwiches for her individual needs and one prepared dish. Mrs. Rutherford has announced that no one need bother about table service.

Miss Elizabeth Phillips, Miss Mary Hilliard and Mrs. Ruth Taylor Scudder were named as the August program committee to succeed Miss Teresa McDonough and Mrs. Jewel Warner, July members.

Merrymakers Return To Childhood at Surprise Party

One of the most enjoyable social events of the summer was a surprise party given late last week by the members of the Young Married People's class of the First Christian church, honoring the birthday of their teacher, Will Gerrard.

The affair was made a costume party and everyone arrived at the Gerrard home, 401 East Fifth street, clad in garments of childhood days. Many interesting games had been arranged for the evening by Miss Marian Gerrard who proved that her ingenuity along such lines would be difficult to surpass. Chief among them was a balloon race in which prizes were awarded the winning side but which yielded fully as much fun for the losers.

A huge birthday cake baked by Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Rash, class members, and another appropriate gifts were presented Mr. Gerrard by his loyal class. Enjoyable refreshments served at a late hour added to the general festivity.

Enjoying the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard were the Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Porter, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Burkett, Messrs. and Mesdames C. C. Kemper, Merl Taylor, Rolfe Montgomery, William H. Rash, Oliver, Carl Lehman, Marshall Secrest, Channery Pond, Charles Greasy, Mrs. Wilkerson, Mrs. Tucker, and the Misses Marian Gerrard and Lorene Porter.

DUNLAP FALLS WHEN VICTIM USES FIST

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Ray Durke, a husky truck driver, will go before the grand jury Thursday and tell of an alleged attack some months ago by Harry J. Dunlap, "badge bandit," which led to a turning of the tables late yesterday.

Called to identify Dunlap as the man who robbed and struck him, then attempted to attack his sweetheart, Miss Hattie Zellner, during a holdup near Lankershim just a year ago, Durke was gripped with rage when he saw the prisoner.

Swinging a hard right fist, the truck driver laid Dunlap unconscious with one blow to the jaw. The "badge bandit" was given treatment at the jail hospital, and came to his senses declaring that Durke's life will be claimed by "my pals on the outside."

The grand jury was ordered before the truck driver Thursday to tell of the holdup which provoked his enmity for Dunlap. Durke was not arrested. Although he begged to be put in a cell with Dunlap for five minutes, "I'll save the county the expense of a trial," he declared.

With the Dunlap trial set for August 18, both the prosecution and defense are speeding their cases in order to be ready at the early date.

Picnic Baskets

Brought Up-to-date

Picnics! Hikes! Automobile trips! All America is outdoors, and the picnic basket goes along! It is fitting then that cookery experts should turn their attention to devising new ways of making the picnic lunch attractive and nourishing and housewives will welcome these suggestions which we reprint from Dorothy B. Marsh's timely article in August Good Housekeeping.

"For the seaside picnic, there are varieties of sandwiches, fruit and plenty of fruit and cake to round out the juicy steak, fried potatoes and coffee which will be cooked on the open fire. Or there are a choice of sliced cold meats with piquant relishes, very simple sandwiches with fruit salad and cake as a top-off for the automobile trip when the dish of creamed chicken, piping hot, as it comes from its container constructed to keep food hot or cold, will just touch the spot."

Tasteful Sandwiches
"If your sandwiches are to be filled with sliced meat, care should be taken that the meat slices are thin, even, and neat, and carved across the grain of the meat rather than with it. It is always best to roast or cook the cuts of meat the day previous to using, so that they may be thoroughly chilled, for it is not easy to carve thin slices of meat from a hot roast. If you are to have tongue sandwiches, cook the smoked tongue until tender, and let it cool in its liquor. Then remove and chill in the refrigerator. The thick end of the tongue is apt to be more juicy than the tapering end. Place the tongue with the convex side forward and cut thin, slanting slices widthwise of the tongue. If you have selected a cooked ham, let it cool in its liquor after cooking until tender, then remove and thoroughly chill. Place the ham for carving so the knuckle bone is resting upright on the platter. Cut thin meat slices straightwise of the meat, clean and straight to the bone, then turn the knife and run it along the bone to loosen the slices. Chicken as a favorite picnic meat may be roasted, steamed, or broiled until tender as preferred. When thoroughly chilled, it may be sliced. The most uniform slices of white meat are cut lengthwise from either side of the breast bone after the drumsticks and wings have been removed. The

Mah Jongg Entertains Inter Se Members At Burkett Home

One of last week's happy little gatherings was that enjoyed at the home of Mrs. R. C. Burkett, 1011 West Camille street when the hostess greeted members of the Inter Se club and a few guests. Carnations and mixed flowers offered a summery background for the merry group who devoted the afternoon to varied interests including mah jongg, needlework and chat.

Cantaloupes, ice cream and coffee offered pleasant refreshments at the tea hour. Mrs. Fred Martin extended an invitation to the group to be her guests at the next meeting.

Mrs. Arch Burkett of Orange and Mrs. T. C. Kemper of this city were guests of the day while members present included Mesdames Charles Aubrey, Lew Hoss, Fred Martin, Frank McCarter, Frank Cannon, Charles F. Mitchell, George Grave, George Curtis, Merle Morris, A. V. Napier, and the hostess, Mrs. R. C. Burkett.

Household Hints

Linoleum Care

ed or inlaid, a way to keep it looking fresh is to mop it occasionally with a floor wax swab—a good floor brush permeated with a good floor wax. This keeps the linoleum in flexible condition.

Cream Soups

Cream soups should be served for luncheon rather than for dinner where rich food is to follow.

Good Substitutes

Rice, spaghetti or macaroni may be frequently substituted for filling omelets, as a garnish, or scallop them for a main dish.

Delicious Dessert

Cream cheese and currant jelly on crackers make a delicious dessert.

Ironing Boards

Be sure that your ironing board is placed in a good light before you start your pressing and you will save much time.

dark meat on the thigh bones and drumsticks can be sliced off with a very sharp knife in neat, even slices. If the sliced meat is to be served at the picnic lunch accompanied by potato chips, sandwiches, etc., divide into individual portions and wrap each portion attractively in wax paper. In wrapping sandwiches, whether they are of the meat variety or some other, you will find that small wooden skewers of the toothpick style secure the ends of the wax paper wrappings very neatly. If you are including more than one variety of sandwich in your picnic basket meal, you can wrap one sandwich of each variety in the same wrapping to facilitate distributing at the picnic.

Preventorium Needs Are Outlined to W. R. C. Women

In policy with their helpfulness along all welfare lines, the Women's Relief Corps members are now listening to the appeal for aid on behalf of the under-nourished children at the Preventorium in Trabuco canyon and have received a list of much-needed articles which their president, Mrs. Kate Sutton, hopes they will supply.

At next Thursday's regular meeting of the W. R. C. Thimble club in G. A. R. hall at 10 a. m., work on various articles will be begun and all members who have things to donate to the worthy cause, will bring them to the hall on that day, where they will be collected in readiness for Mrs. C. C. Violette of Garden Grove, to deliver to the camp.

Mrs. Sutton today said the list of necessities given to her included children's underwear (up to fourteen years), stockings, outing flannel "nighties," black bloomers or material to make them, khaki or other dark middie, quilts for single beds, clean soft rags, jellies and above all, shoes.

The latter need not be new, just so they are serviceable and may be used in camp where the children wear out shoes at an amazing rate. Those who find it impossible to have the articles they would give, at the G. A. R. hall Thursday, may bring them to the regular Corps meeting on the following Thursday or to any succeeding Corps meeting.

At the Thimble club meeting, the members will each add one surprise dish to the pot-luck luncheon to be enjoyed at noon.

(By United Press Leased Wire)

The fat comedian who has been trying to stage a comeback since his acquittal in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, asked the council for forgiveness and a "chance to live a clean, decent life and pay my debts."

Arbuckle's appearance was the result of a resolution introduced by Mrs. Margaret Shepard, woman alderman, barring the actor from local theaters. While the resolution was being read Arbuckle entered the meeting room. Before a vote was taken he asked for and received permission to speak.

In a brief but earnest talk to the council, Arbuckle told of his efforts to "beat back."

COUNCIL RENEWS STEPS TO OPEN SYCAMORE ST. NORTH TO 15TH ST. AFTER PROTEST

With adoption of plans necessary for the creation of an assessment district, the city council last night renewed its efforts to open Sycamore street north from Washington avenue to Fifteenth street. Proceedings to open the street were blocked six months ago by a protest.

According to a statement made last night to the council by George Wells, property owners in the district now are anxious to open the thoroughfare. Council members some months ago declared their intention to force opening of the street, following elapse of a period of six months after defeat in the former attempt.

Request of the California Packing corporation for water for its plant on East First street during the canning season was referred to Walter Wray, water superintendent, for consideration. It was stated at the meeting that the company wanted to obtain water from the city in order to conserve for use in operation of the machinery of the plant electricity that would be consumed by the company in pumping water.

Overcome Sewer Barrier
Members of the council agreed that were the city to pump the water required by the cannery, the city would be consuming the same amount of current that would be utilized were the cannery to pump its own water. It was suggested that the packing company could do as many other private water consumers are doing—purchase a gas engine to develop power for pumping.

Expressing a desire to assist the company in any way possible, the council instructed Wray to discuss with the local manager of the cannery and proper authorities the possibility of the cannery being given sufficient power to maintain the cannery in full operation during the period required to handle the products it will preserve this season.

Conditions that have retarded the development of North Broadway Park subdivision were cleared by the council's agreeing to accept from Mr. and Mrs. Chris Petz a deed to property needed to extend Greenleaf street north from Santa Clara avenue to North Park boulevard. The deed will carry the stipulation that the street shall not be opened within five years. The street was needed for a sewer outlet for a portion of the big subdivision. Under the agreement with Petz the sewer line may be installed at once.

Paving Held Up by Pipe
In response to a question asked by R. G. Cartwright as to when paving would begin on Cypress avenue, McFadden to Edinger streets, the council informed property owners on Cypress and Orange avenues that the work would be begun as soon as water pipe was available. Pipe is on hand for use on Cypress avenue. It was stated, but not for Orange avenue. Wray was directed to check his stock of water pipe to see if material could be spared for the work on Orange avenue. The council members stated they wanted to put the improvement on the two streets under one proceedings to save property owners added expense. It was intimated at the meeting that a petition now is in circulation for paving Maple street from McFadden to Edinger streets.

Police Commissioner George McPhee was authorized to discuss with Dr. W. Leland Mitchell, county health officer, a recent instruction issued by the Santa Ana health officer to drivers of garbage trucks to condemn garbage cans that were not serviceable. In the opinion of council members the sanitary inspector should pass on the cans and not the drivers.

T. B. Kelly, instructor in chemistry at the high school, was appointed a member of the city library board, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of J. S. Smart.

Might Pave Alley
A check for $2726.14 was received for the Southern California Edison company as payment of its franchise tax for seven months.

Following declaration made by W. E. Gates that an alley from First to Second streets paralleling the tracks of the Pacific Electric branch to Huntington Beach was a menace, Councilmen McPhee and N. T. Lacy and W. G. Knox, city engineer, were appointed a committee to investigate. Supported by a representative of the railway company, Gates asked that the alley be abandoned. Councilman C. H. Chapman suggested that the alley offered a thoroughfare between First and Second streets and might be of service to the fire department in responding to a call.

There is no north and south street between French and Garfield streets, it was said, and suggestion was made that if the alley and railway right-of-way were paved it would make a serviceable street.

With owners of 66 per cent of the frontage on Garfield street, between First and Sixth streets, protesting proposed paving of the street, proceedings were ordered discontinued.

J. T. Lacy and H. B. Sleeper, firemen, were appointed assistants to W. O. Packard, city electrician. The men will have charge of the maintenance of the fire alarm system and each will receive added compensation of $10 per month.

Other Women Will Benefit
by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being all tired out so I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R. F. D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

MINSTREL SHOW NETS CRIPPLED TOTS $450

The minstrel show that was presented last week by crippled children of the Los Angeles Orthopaedic hospital-school to Santa Anans that thronged the high school auditorium here yielded the young entertainers more than $450, it was stated today by those in charge. The fund, it was explained, would be added to the senior alumni treasury which the tots are building to help themselves and other unfortunate children to independence.

"From the other viewpoint of increasing morale, however, the production scored even a greater success," reported Miss Helen Sinclair, advance manager for the show, who made arrangements for publicity and production. "The sight of the large auditorium packed with people acted as a great stimulus."

"One of the performers telephoned Mrs. Mary Rolls-Hatch, the director of the show and a beloved friend of all the children, on Saturday morning after their return to the hospital-school. To enquire how Mrs. Hatch felt. The conversation ran something like this:

"Good morning, Mother Hatch; this is Sara speaking. How do you feel?"

"Very well indeed, Sara, and proud of my minstrels. How are you this morning?" responded Mrs. Hatch, to which Sara said:

"Why, Mother Hatch, I never was so happy in my life! Did you see that crowd? Why I was so happy all night I never slept a wink."

"The hospital-school is agog with plans for bigger and better shows, for trips to other towns and training that will make the performance finer. But the agreement is that no matter what they may add to the show, or where they may take it, never can they hope to find a kinder, more receptive, responsive audience than the one they faced in Santa Ana Friday night."

"The children insist that they are 'coming back' some day and give their friends in Santa Ana full evidence of what their response to their first effort will mean in future development."

"The various organization heads and individuals in Santa Ana who contributed so freely to the time and energy to make the Friday evening performance a success will hear directly from the corresponding secretary of the senior alumni with an expression of thanks. We wish to take this opportunity, however, to say that we are deeply grateful for the understanding and co-operation we have received."

BIGGEST FAMILY
DUE FOR AWARD

Knowing that Orange county produces quite a number of the "biggest and best" in the state, according to Sheriff Sam Jernigan, the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce today requested the local criminal experts to perform a "different" kind of sleuthing.

The unusual request addressed to the sheriff states:

"The Sacramento chamber of commerce is looking for the largest family in the state, and when this family is found will present them with an automobile at the coming state fair to be held in Sacramento, August 30 to September 7."

"Entries in the biggest family contest are already being received from all parts of the state, but to insure the winners from being done out of the prize by someone who might adopt a large family of neighbor children for the occasion, one of the rules of the contest is that a certificate bearing the names of all members of the family entering the contest from your county must be signed by you. This will prevent, we believe, any unfairness to the contest."

A set of the rules of the contest was mailed to Jernigan, who is trying to bring the "big family" honor to Orange county.

Maharaja Kills Huge White Tiger

CALCUTTA, July 29.—Sportsmen all over India are greatly interested in the skin of a white tiger recently shot by the Maharaja of Sirguja and which is now on display here. Except for a few darker stripings the pelt is almost pure white and measures nine feet eight inches from nose to tail tip. The white tiger is extremely rare, but few specimens ever having been secured, and this one is reported to have had a career of predation that included three human victims and innumerable cattle.

SCRAPPED GUNS WANTED FOR COAST USE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—That the 16-inch guns of the scrapped battleships of the Montana class should be used to strengthen the coast defenses of the Pacific coast and replace the now obsolete guns at present constituting their armament, is expressed in a statement given out today by Brig. Gen. Henry D. Todd, Jr., commanding the 9th coast artillery district, which comprises all of the seacoast fortifications on the Pacific coast.

"For the past year there has been a continual study of the conditions existing in the seacoast forts of the 9th corps area and in this study a comparison has been made between the armament of foreign capital ships and the armament in our fixed defenses," said General Todd. "This comparison has shown that all of the guns on the Pacific coast are greatly overpowered and out-ranged by the guns afloat. The situation could be greatly improved, in fact the problem could be considered satisfactorily solved if we could emplace at each of the principal harbors a few of the best guns that are now available."

"The history of naval attacks against fortified harbors indicates that an attacking force has always brought at least five or six times as many guns as were mounted in the forts attacked. However, warships are not built to fight coastal forts; occasionally it is believed that from two to four of the best guns would make each of the big harbors reasonably safe against bombardment."

"Such guns are the 16-inch, 50 calibre guns that were constructed for the batteries of the Montana class of battleships, but which were not mounted because of the cost of the disarmament conference. To construct the emplacements, build the carriages and mount two of these guns in one battery, would cost about two million dollars, which is only one 20th the cost of one battleship, and hence a very small premium to pay for insuring the safety of a big commercial port."

CHAMBERS' AID IN UNIVERSITY FOR COUNTY STEP ASKED

Associated Body Scheduled to Name Committee to Work For School

OPPORTUNITY IS TOLD

Promise of Location Held First Needed Before Site Secured

Appointment of a committee to induce location in Orange county of the proposed southern branch of the state university will be made, George Raymer of Fullerton, secretary of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, announced today, when the county body meets Thursday night at the clubhouse at Costa Mesa.

S. C. Harrault of Fullerton, the secretary added, would lead in discussion of the project scheduled for the meeting. At a meeting held in Fullerton recently of representatives of various sections in the northern section, W. J. Carmichael, member of the city council at Fullerton, was appointed a committee to present to the Associated Chambers a resolution endorsing the movement to secure the proposed branch for this county.

Raymer said that as yet no effort had been made to procure a site in the county.

Site Not Needed First

"The first thing to be accomplished is to secure definite promises of the board of regents that the branch will be located in this county," the secretary said. "Then development of a site will follow. There are many good places in the county for such an institution."

The secretary said that the university, like all other California institutions, has outgrown its present location.

"A big area is needed," continued the secretary. "It probably would require approximately 500 acres to provide a site adequate for present and future needs of the branch. The southern branch is destined to become a big institution and a site and equipment will be provided commensurate with the rich and productive section of

LETTERS SENT SWING SHOW CONGRESSMAN'S FRIENDLY RELATIONSHIP AT CAPITAL

Friends Here Declare Criticism Asserted to Be Made Out of Whole Cloth

Replying to an accusation of his opponents, Congressman Phil D. Swing today fired three big guns in a broadside that Swing's friends said should set at rest any suspicion that his opponents have been endeavoring to arouse concerning Swing's standing at Washington.

The three big guns are letters written to Congressman Nicholas Longworth, Republican floor leader, another by Congressman A. H. Vestal, Republican whip, and the third by C. B. Slom, secretary of President Calvin Coolidge. The latter letter shows the friendly relationship of the White House toward Swing.

Led by the Los Angeles Times, opposing newspapers have said that Swing has no co-operation with Republicans in congress. Swing's friends have declared this criticism to be unfair, unjust and made out of whole cloth. Today, from Swing's headquarters in San Diego copies of the three letters were sent out. The three letters follow:

From Floor Leader

The letter from the Republican floor leader reads thus: "My dear colleague: I have your letter of the 1st, and am surprised to know that criticism has been made of you in your district to the effect that you have failed to co-operate in legislation backed by the Republican leadership of the house."

"To my mind there is no ground for such criticism. While you have exercised, as was very proper, independence of thought and action in some instances, I can recall no instance in which basic Republican principles were involved that we did not have assistance and co-operation from you. Of course I need not say that our own personal relations have been and are of the most cordial character."

Wishing you every success in the coming election, I am

Very sincerely yours,

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH.

Letter from G. O. P. Whip

The letter from the party leader, Congressman Vestal, says:

"My dear colleague: Permit me to express my appreciation of your help and co-operation during this session of congress. Probably there has never been a time in the history of the house when the responsibility of the whip has been as great as in the present congress because of so

REP. PHIL D. SWING

JOINT MUSICAL PLAY FINANCE PLAN READY

Chamber Committee May Issue Its Report After Meeting Thursday

The Committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to arrange for a joint campaign for financing the activities of the Orange County Choral Union, Community Players, Santa Ana Municipal band and Santa Ana Symphony orchestra will report the result of its work to the Chamber board of directors Wednesday of next week, Robert R. Shafer, chairman of the committee announced today.

The report will be made following a meeting of the membership of each organization at a dinner to be held at Ketter's cafe this Thursday at 6:30 p. m., according to Shafer, who emphasized the fact that the meeting had been changed from tomorrow to the following evening.

"We expect the full membership of each organization to be present," Shafer said. "It is important that all be in attendance. We will present full details of the plans that have been approved by the officials of all the organizations. We want the personnel to be fully informed as to the agreements that have been reached as to the apportionment of the funds."

Shafer said that following the report of the committee it was probable that steps would be taken to organize an effective campaign for the sale of tickets to the ten entertainments to be given by the group this winter.

The goal has been set at 2000 tickets at $5 each. The tickets will admit the holder to each of the entertainments and may be transferable at the pleasure of the purchaser.

D. Eymann Huff and his committee of business men chosen to direct the business affairs of the four organizations, Shafer said, have been invited to participate in the meeting.

It is possible, he added, that the drive will be made some time in September.

"The community should be deeply interested in proper support for the local enterprises," Shafer concluded, "and we believe that sufficient workers will be available to complete the active campaign in a short time."

First 'Snowball' For S. A. Claimed

Many persons were interested today in a unique demonstration conducted in the window at the Jesse and Hill appliance company 118 North Sycamore street.

"It's the first snowball of the season," remarked J. W. Jesse, a member of the firm, "and it is a genuine Santa Ana-made product. The huge ball of frost demonstrates the cooling efficiency of the Fridaire electric refrigerator which is now handled exclusively in Orange county at our store."

"This machine is a product of Delco Light. Frigidaire is sold as a complete refrigerator for the home or may be installed in any ice box."

'AIR COP' NEED SEEN AS PARK MEET RILED

Low-Flying Planes Made Services Difficult, But Regulation Is Problem

Is Santa Ana to have an "air cop"?

If not, how will City Marshal Claude Rogers carry out his promise to prevent a repetition of an episode that occurred here last Sunday, when hundreds of worshippers, assembled at Birch park for union services, were disturbed, according to the Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, by the roar of low-flying airplanes?

In a protest that the Rev. Mr. Schrock made to Rogers, against what he termed the offensive noise made by airplanes which circled over the park, he urged the local authorities to prevent a repetition of such "religious discourtesy" by patrolling properly the air above the city.

Altitude Law in Effect

When the flying machines flew near the place where the outdoor religious services were being held "it was impossible to hear the speaker," the Rev. Mr. Schrock told Rogers.

According to Rogers, discussing several aspects of the situation, there can be no controversy regarding the application of the term "motor vehicle" to flying machines, and it makes no difference whether a "muffler ordinance" was violated, because recently-enacted city legislation makes it a violation of the law for any aircraft to fly over Santa Ana at an altitude lower than 1500 feet.

This law is now in effect, Rogers explained, and will be enforced if it is humanly possible to do so.

"As for Sunday's incident," the marshal stated, "there is considerable dispute regarding the altitude of the fliers. I have heard no one say the planes were below the height limit, although I agree with the Rev. Mr. Schrock when he declares the noise from the motors is offensive during outdoor programs of any kind."

Airmen Identified

Because identification of the planes was impossible, the Rev. Mr. Schrock made no complaints against any specific airmen.

At the time the services were being held, two brothers who operate planes here, were taking passengers aloft. Passengers in these planes said the aircraft remained above the 1500-foot altitude at all times during their flights except when the aviators were far from Santa Ana's boundaries.

Among the passengers carried Sunday were a score of Santa Ana firemen, who were treated to a wide variety of aerial thrills.

"Peculiar atmospheric conditions Sunday enabled persons in the parts of the city to hear the airmen yelling to each other while their planes coasted with motors shut off at a height of more than 2000 feet," one fire department official explained. He

18 PAST AS IDEAL WEDDING AGE FOR GIRLS; 25 IS NOW, SAYS AUTHORITY OF U. OF C.

Here is the pretty maid whom the judges decided was the prettiest in all Spain. They call her Senorita La Coya. She is 25 years old—an age University of California authority says is best for "modern girl's" marriage.

CHAPLIN, LASKY HERE BUT NOT MOVIE STARS

Today was "movie day" at the Hotel Cooper here, and yet not a single movie star was present.

The surnames of eight well-known stars were listed on the register, and the reporter, ever anxious to "locate" a celebrity in Santa Ana, was of the opinion that he had found a whole nest of Hollywood's queens.

The surnames were the names of stars, but the initials and first names were "all wrong" for a big yarn.

The coincidence, if any, was the fact that all of the names were written directly underneath one another, as if a whole company of "Mary Pickfords" had registered at the hotel at the same time.

But instead of Jesse Lasky, Billy Burke, Charlie Chaplin, Bessie Love, Conway Tearle, Lois Wilson, Gloria Swanson and Glenn Hunter, the "stars" were E. Lasky, G. N. Burke, H. Chaplin, H. C. Love, C. Conway, W. B. Wilson, Charles Swanson and A. J. Hunter.

BERKELEY, Cal., July 29.—

Marriage is competitive.

Adequate preparation is best guarantee of success for one entering the vocation.

Miss Mary Messer, University of California instructor, is authority for the statements. She is the first to establish a college course in marriage and divorce.

"Requisites of a generation ago today are inadequate for successful wifehood," declared Miss Messer. "Times have changed, developed immeasurably, and a woman contemplating housewifery must prepare herself under conditions of the new era."

"The present is an age of competition, and of business partnerships."

"Aspects of this have remodeled the marital state. Remorse is likely to be the lot of the girl who fails to adjust herself to advanced conditions."

Wait, Her Advice.

A period of intervening between finish of college and marriage should be utilized as a postgrad course in experience, she believes.

"At least three years in the business world," she says. "This gives the girl ability to support herself, an opportunity to meet (and thus learn) men, and a general broadening which will reflect in her conversation and habits."

"During this period it is inadvisable for the girl to live at home. Also she should concentrate upon her work as though she intended never to quit self-support."

"It is necessary that the girl bring about this experience period as our laws do not protect against too early marriage. Some states allow immature girls of 14 and 15 to assume these mature obligations. Whether such marriages lead generally may be guessed."

"Eighteen once was considered the ideal age. Maybe it was. But no more."

Even 21, I should say, is premature, eliminating as it does the girl's opportunity for business experience.

"Twenty-five would seem a very good age, with 30 reaching a point where adaptation becomes increasingly difficult."

Three Periods.

Experience with the opposite sex—but wholesome and decorous—lends toward fitting the girl for domesticity, Miss Messer declares. For thus she learns to estimate correctly the men who seek her hand in marriage, and to choose intelligently, and also gains better understanding for life with her future husband.

"In this period the woman should return to outside vocation," Miss Messer believes. "Maybe she will find vent in political, philanthropic or regular office work."

COUNTY WEALTH GAIN FOR YEAR IS $50,000,000 IN SPITE OF OIL LOSSES

$12,000,000 Valuation Increase In Year Represents 6 Per Cent

S. A. FORGES AHEAD

Fullerton and Brea Suffer Cuts As Wells Decrease But Building Marked

Assessed valuations of school districts, road districts, various special districts and cities, announced today by County Auditor W. C. Jerome, revealed that regardless of fluctuations in individual industries and markets, Orange county was making a rapid and steady growth as a whole.

The figures, made public today, which showed an increase of approximately $12,000,000 in the assessed valuation, indicating a $50,000,000 growth in actual wealth of the county, proved unmistakably, Jerome asserted, that any one industry, even as great a one as the oil industry, was powerless to stem the county's progress.

For the oil industry, the figures revealed, slumped this year, and some of the oil districts suffered a corresponding slump in valuation, although Huntington Beach increased heavily. But even this loss or most of it, was made up by advancement in building and other lines of progress in the districts affected, while all of the districts forged ahead collectively.

Wealth Gain 6 Per Cent

"The county is now a $600,000,000 corporation, with assessed figures taken as a basis of calculation," Jerome stated. "The $12,000,000 increase in assessed valuation means an increase of about $50,000,000 in actual values. That is a 6 per cent gain in wealth."

Discussing the tax rate in connection with the valuation figures, Jerome said that the proposed rate of 10 per cent in the county tax rate would mean, with a 6 per cent increase in valuation, a lowering of the county taxes approximately 4 per cent.

This, he said, represented the difference caused by the completion of the county building program, including the new hall of records, jail and juvenile home. With no buildings to finance this year, the county could cut its taxes 4 per cent. Otherwise it would cost about the same to run the county's business this year that it did last year, Jerome said.

"This cut, however, applies merely to the tax represented by the county rate, which is a comparatively small proportion of the total tax paid," declared Jerome.

Other Taxes Figure

"Such a cut," he said, "would scarcely be reflected in the tax bill of the individual, unless there is a corresponding cut in the rates for school districts and special districts, over which the county supervisors have little or no control."

The $12,000,000 increase in assessed valuation is made up of a gain of nearly $10,000,000 in non-operative valuations and an increase of approximately $2,000,000, in valuations of operative property, that of railroads and public utilities, which pay taxes to the state instead of the county.

Nearly $14,000,000 in assessed valuation is removed from the total subject to county tax, the auditor explained. Operative property valuation is $10,041,325, exemptions amount to $2,698,360, and soldier exemptions totalled $1,238,320, making a total of $13,968,365.

Jerome's valuation figures disclosed interesting facts regarding school district assessments as compared to those of last year, the increase being close to $10,000,000.

While other oil districts were decreasing, Huntington Beach jumped nearly $9,000,000, chiefly due to increased production by the

MISS ALIAS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Peck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curtis. That night Sallie goes into the yard to take down a washing for Ma Brennan, with whom Sallie lives. A crash shakes the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the head.

When she regains consciousness, the girl finds herself in strange surroundings. A French maid calls her Alva Copeland and Madame Copeland, a tall, richly gowned woman, claims her as her step-daughter. Sallie discovers that she has fallen into the hands of crooks who are substituting her for the real Alva Copeland.

A man-servant falls in love with Sallie and helps her escape but takes her to a den of thieves. She is tied in the cellar of the house but manages to loosen the cords.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
The renewed rush of blood through the compressed veins was torture but she rubbed her wrists vigorously and then set to work to loosen the bonds about her ankles. This took longer but at length it was accomplished and she rose somewhat shakily to her feet.

Surely there must be water somewhere! There was a constant drip-drip which could not be from dampness alone and Sallie tottered about until she came to a faucet which jutted out over a fairly clean bucket. A thin stream of clear cool water flowed when she turned it and pausing only to rinse the bucket once she filled it a third full and hurried back to the other girl.

Raising her head she permitted her to drink as deeply as she would and then when she felt back gasping with relief Sallie gently bathed her face and swollen wrists with the remainder of the water.

"How long have you been here?" she demanded, indignant at the girl's condition.

"I—I cannot know. Weeks, I think!" the other sighed. "Day and night is the same, and until now the loneliness—and the dreams—"

She broke off and began to cry weakly and Sallie smoothed her hair until the first hysteria had passed and then asked:

"But why are they keeping you here?"

"Because I cannot tell them where the diamonds are."

"What?" Sallie jumped as if one of the rats scurrying so near had bitten her. "The man who tried to cut you 'Diamond Bess' too, do they?"

"The man did. The man who found me in the small town where I left the motor after running away from the wreck."

There was no surprise in the girl's apathetic tones but Sallie exclaimed:

"This is coming too fast for me! You don't mean a train wreck? A train called the 'Gotham Arrow'?"

"Yes. My hair was like yours but I had it made black to avoid this man, and I hid myself in a pension—a boarding-house—in New York till my—my fiancé—the man who came and took away. The man followed me even there, and I wrote to my fiancé to come quickly for me. When I went out to mail the letter there stood a sedan by the postbox, and a—a lady, quite elderly, stepped from it in great distress and asked me if I would help her. That her husband had been taken suddenly ill beside her there in the car. Thinking no harm I entered, with my letter still in my hand, when the woman pushed me roughly forward, crowded in after me, the door was slammed and we drove off! So they brought me here. May I—oh, may I have just a little water?"

Sallie's thoughts were in chaos when she brought it, and after the girl had drunk she set to work to unfasten the knots which bound her wrists and ankles also.

"You are so good!" the other sighed. "There can be no escape for us of course, but this respite is like heaven!"

"Don't you worry! We'll get out all right!" Sallie spoke with a confidence she was far from feeling. "Do these crooks know who you are?"

"No, and they never shall!" the girl exclaimed. "My letter which they took was signed only: 'Thine'. But why do you ask?"

"Because I know!" Sallie laughed. "Here I've been thinking you were dead all this while, and everybody else thinks I'm dead! Look at this dress I've got on! It's all muck from rolling around this floor, but don't you recognize it? Oh, you needn't look at me like that! I won't tell if they keep me here till Kingdom come, but unless I'm crazy you're Alva Cope—"

"Hush! Oh, hush!" The other lifted her numbed hand as though to ward off a blow.

"All right," Sallie agreed equably. "Maybe you'd like to know, though, that your fiancé is still riding up and down in front of the house watching your window—? Oh, don't cry! You'll see him soon, I know, and everything will be just wonderful for you!"

"Will you tell me a little more?" Alva begged. "All that you can, and quickly, before they come and find us like this?"

"I sure will! There, your feet are free! Now let me rub your ankles till they stop hurting. When they couldn't find you, your step-mother kidnapped me out of my own back yard where the wreck had landed on me, and brought me to New York to take your place."

and seated herself beside the other girl, with the ax resting against her knee. "Just thought this might come in handy in case the wrong parties think of us first. Hear that?"

A fusillade of shots rang out, and Alva shrank against her, covering her ears, but to Sallie it was the sweetest sound she had ever heard. It ceased and a mighty pounding seemed to jar the very foundations about them.

Alva looked up in stark terror. "They've got to the door! They're breaking it in! There go the windows, too!" Sallie was chanting to herself in a transport of joy, as the crash of glass sounded between the heavy blows. "Oh, Alva, you're missing it all!"

Alva took her hands from her ears. "I am ashamed," she said simply. "You are a very wonderful girl, Sallie."

"They're fighting for us! Ain't you glad to hear it and know it? There, the door's down at last! Now there'll be more shooting!"

Sallie's prophecy was instantly verified, for with the jarring slam which told of the falling door a very roar of shots rang out, mingled with hoarse cries, and the tramping of feet overhead increased till the stout beams seemed to quiver.

"The shooting has stopped," Alva cried suddenly. "Why is that, Sallie? There is no longer the scuffling, either, although I still hear those terrible groans, don't you? What does it mean?"

"I don't know," Sallie's face set grimly and she gripped the ax handle. "You stay right where you are and you'll be safe enough, for you're out of range. That's a trapdoor over that ladder, isn't it?"

"Yes. It is through that they come through, the way they brought you. Oh, those footprints! They have stopped there! Sallie! Sallie! What are you going to do?"

But Sallie was past hearing. The joy of battle was upon her and springing to the side of the ladder she stood waiting, her weapon poised to strike. Heavy foot-falls had indeed paused by the trapdoor and after a hoarse murmur of voices it commenced to lift slowly.

"I've got an ax!" Sallie yelled in savage warning. "I've got an ax and I'll chop off the legs of the first man who steps on that ladder!"

"Sallie!" A blessedly familiar voice with a sob shaking it shouted from above. "Sallie, my girl! Thank God!"

The ax fell to the floor as a sturdy figure, disdaining the ladder, swung down through the opening and caught her in his strong arms. She did not know that a taller man had followed him and was kneeling by the wasted form on the cot, nor that a stream of bluecoats and plainclothes men was coming down the ladder. All Sallie knew was that Mike's faithful brown eyes were gazing down into hers and his heart beating mightily against the hollow of her shoulder.

"Oh, Mike!" she sobbed. "I'm sorry I was horrid to you about Ma Brennan!"

CHAPTER XIII
Ma Brennan's Last Word
"THERE'S one thing," Ma Brennan observed musingly.

"There's one thing strikes me queer in the whole awful business, Michael. Why did you ask Hal-loran over at Kingsville the name of the number of that big red car?"

"His that Miss Copeland hired to drive her in to New York after she ran away from here?"

It was two days later and the three were seated on the porch of the little house in Shaftstown, Sallie at Ma Brennan's feet with her head against the wall, looking long over at Kingsville where the silk dress—donned in honor of the constant stream of visitors who had flowed in and out earlier in the day—and Michael beside her, holding one of her hands as if he could never let it go.

"I don't know why, Ma," he replied absently. "Life of duty, I guess; routine work."

"But why did the girl ask it, too?"

He shrugged. "Search me! Don't let's talk about it! When I think what Sallie's been through—"

"Now, Mike!" Sallie exclaimed. "You'll start Ma off crying again! My goodness, anybody'd think she wasn't glad to have me back, the way she's been carrying on ever since we walked in on her!"

"Think shame to yourself, darling! Well you know they were tears o' thanksgiving, when I got over the first shock o' it!" Ma Brennan stroked the shining head fondly with her worn, wrinkled hand and added:

RICH PROMOTER GETS DEATH THREAT

NEW YORK, July 29.—Frederick Megna, 18, a laborer, was in the town jail at Glen Cove, Long Island, because he made a boast.

He bragged to fellow workmen the police say, that he would kill his former employer, John E. Aldred, millionaire promoter and international financier, if Aldred didn't give him some money. The workmen immediately told Aldred's secretary.

When Aldred received an unsigned note a day later, ordering him to place $500 "under a sign in Locust valley which points to Peacock Point" under the pain of being killed and having his daughter kidnapped, the secretary told Chief of Police Donohue of Glen Cove of Megna's threat.

Megna was arrested at his home in Glen Cove. Megna until recently was employed as a laborer on the beautiful Aldred estate at Locust Valley. He left the Aldred employ because he was dissatisfied with his wages.

"If you notify the police we will kill both of you on your place immediately, as we have a man watching every move you make," the postscript to the threatening letter read.

Aldred, senior member of the banking firm of Aldred & Co., 40 Wall street, is chairman of the board of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co., of Baltimore and of the Gillette Safety Razor Co., and a director in numerous public utility corporations and banks, including the Bank of the Manhattan Co. and the Mutual Trust Co.

He helped to organize and is interested in a syndicate which in 1922 obtained control of water power and public utilities of northern Italy. The last of a series of payments by the syndicate to the government of Italy was said to be $50,000,000.

Arris of Anaheim are spending the week at the villa with their guest, Louisa Acosta of Los Angeles.

W. Joseph Choate of Los Angeles spent the weekend visiting Harland Durand at the Arch Beach grocery store. Mr. Choate and Mr. Durand are making preparations to leave on a two-weeks' camping trip, and expect to visit the big pine country and the high Sierras. Mr. Choate recently completed his course of law at the University of Southern California and will take his bar examination sometime in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Cohen and sons, Robert and Paul, are spending the week at the Laguna Beach villa. Mrs. Cohen is well known in Los Angeles musical circles.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

WALKER—"The White Sister," with Lillian Gish.
WEST END—"Being Respectable," with Monte Blue and Marie Prevost.

YOST—Vaudeville road show (five acts) and "The Arizona Express," with David Butler and Pauline Starke.

"THE ARIZONA EXPRESS" TO CLOSE TONIGHT
Probably there are few situations known to drama more thrilling than that in which an innocent person allows himself to be convicted of murder to save another. David Butler in "The Arizona Express" at the Yost theater, does it even more dramatically than usual—probably because Lincoln J. Carter, that famous king of melodrama, wrote the play.

Butler is deeply in love with a dancer who is using him to get information about his uncle's bank in which he works. The uncle suspects the girl, follows her to her apartment and finds her drawing the plan of the bank for Johnson, her lover, who is at the head of a gang of thugs. He tries to get the drawings away from the girl and Johnson shoots him. Just then a knock is heard at the door and the girl pulls her hair over her face, rips open her waist and tells David, who enters, that his uncle had assaulted her and she shot him. When the house detectives enter a minute later, David tells them that he did the shooting to protect the girl. It is a thrilling moment, and it is only a beginning. The whole picture is redolent with such tense situations.

ALL-STAR CAST SEEN IN "BEING RESPECTABLE"
"Being respectable," the photoplay attraction at the West End theater, takes a fling at some of our pet beliefs.

The story is that of a lot of people of average social standing who tried to work out their destinies on the theory that they didn't care what people thought of them and were in no sense bound by the so-called "conventions." The unhappy tangle that resulted is the "red meat" of the narrative and drama.

Monte Blue, Marie Prevost, Irene Rich, Louise Fazenda and Theodore Von Eltz are some of the well known players who appear in the interpreting cast.

The appearance of Louise Fazenda in a serious role in the picture is worthy of comment. Miss Fazenda is widely known as a screen comedienne—in fact, she has never before played a screen part in which her business has not been to make people laugh. In "Being Respectable" she is a sweet, quiet, unassuming young woman who seems to be getting a particularly bad deal in the matrimonial game. The manner in which she plays the part marks Miss Fazenda as one of the most capable and versatile players on the screen.

WEST END NOW PLAYING

Henry King's production of "The White Sister," starring Lillian Gish, has been acclaimed one of the dramatic triumphs of the year.

"The White Sister" perhaps is pictorially the most beautiful film ever made. The company spent seven months in Italy and northern Africa filming sections of Rome, Naples, Sorrento and Tivoli backgrounds.

Lillian Gish has the finest role in her career and her acting has been acclaimed as the greatest in the history of the screen—worthy of a Bernhardt or Duse.

A new favorite has sprung up in the person of the dashing Ronald Colman, who plays the soldier lover.

For the climax of the picture the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in early 1923 was filmed. This outburst caused the loss of hundreds of lives and millions of dollars. The scenes were taken at enormous personal risk on the part of the staff. "The White Sister" closes at Walker's tonight.

TRUSTEES ACT ON NUMEROUS QUESTIONS

New Members Appointed to Fill Vacancies on Library Board

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 29.—Here are a few of the many things done by the board of trustees at their adjourned session here last night:

A petition signed by numerous property owners on Indianapolis avenue asking the scrapping and oiling of that street between Delaware and Hampshire avenues was referred to the city engineer for action.

Several communications were read and placed on file, among them being one from Walter P. Mitchell for the auditing of the city books. A request from the First Church of Christ Scientist asking permission to install boxes for literature was granted. A letter of thanks from the chamber of commerce was accepted and placed on file.

The applications of S. A. Allen and W. G. Boyle, for the place of custodian of the auto camp grounds were placed on file with the city clerk. Four applications have been received.

A request for $10 from the gas department, made by the chamber of commerce, was granted.

Librarian Makes Report

The annual report of the library was given showing that during the year 1045 books were added to the library. Mrs. Larter and A. J. Thedick were recommended to fill the places left vacant by the expiration of the terms of Mrs. Ed Manning and H. T. Dunning of the library board.

A request for permission to stage six amateur boxing bouts was granted.

A protest was registered, signed by thirty property owners of Eighth street, against the erection of a store building at the corner of Eighth street and Palm avenue. The matter was referred to a special committee composed of the chairman of the board, the city attorney and the city engineer, for investigation and action.

The first reading of ordinance 272 reducing gas rates was given to the councilmen.

Approve Engineer's Bond

The bonds of E. M. Billings for city engineer and superintendent of streets were approved by the board of trustees.

A special committee was appointed to investigate the matter of installing a fence about the auto camp grounds.

The plans for the driveways and parking spaces for the camp as submitted to the board of trustees by City Engineer Billings were approved.

John I. Hinkle, representing the American Red Cross and also several women's clubs, asked that the board of trustees co-operate with the organizations in the securing of a lease on ocean frontage west of the bath house where a playground and nursery may be erected soon. A report will be made on the matter at the next meeting of the council.

Parking on Fifth street will be changed from parallel to diagonal. The assessment districts on Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets were approved.

Resolutions 441 and 442, providing for the plans and specifications and intention to pave Walnut avenue, were passed.

Decorations are to be purchased by the trustees for use during August. Tables are to be built along the beach to care for several large picnic parties, among which will be a group of about 250 shop employees of the Southern Pacific railroad.

The band stand is to be enlarged to care for a 100-piece band to play here Labor Day and also Armistice Day.

It will also be the occasion of the election of officers for the coming year.

Almost every member of the Anaheim Realty Board will be present at the state convention of real estate men which will be held in Pasadena from October 8 to 11, according to an announcement made today by President Harry Sidman.

One of the principal features of the convention will be the golf tournament for the championship of the state, in which Anaheim will be represented by a strong team. The state association has reserved the entire Maryland hotel for the event, which will be convention headquarters.

COOLIDGE SUPPORTERS POINT TO ANAHEIM RESOLUTION AS ATTEMPT TO SLUR PHIL SWING

ANAHEIM, July 29.—Declaring that Judge J. S. Howard, of Anaheim, has used the Anaheim Coolidge club as a weapon to strike at Congressman Phil D. Swing because Howard was unable to name Anaheim's postmaster, many Coolidge Republicans have expressed their disapproval of a resolution of endorsement of Edward Sample, Swing's opponent, passed by the Coolidge club of which Howard is chairman.

Swing's friends say they have no reason for objecting to the activity of any person or organization when that objection is founded on facts. They say that any objection to Congressman Swing on the ground that he is not a sound and upstanding Republican is unjust and unfair.

They point out that in his platform, given to every newspaper in this district immediately on his return from Washington, has the following:

"I will support the Republican ticket and Republican policies. I shall unreservedly support Calvin Coolidge, nominee of the Republican party, for president, and on the Coolidge-Johnson ticket, I shall co-operate with the President and my party in congress on all fundamental Republican policies."

They also point to the strong letter of endorsement given Swing by C. C. Teague, president of the California Fruit Growers' exchange and president of the California Walnut Growers' association. Teague was one of the most Coolidge leaders of the state in the Coolidge-Johnson contest, and went to Cleveland as a Coolidge delegate. On June 19 he wrote to Swing a letter from which the following paragraphs are taken:

"I have always remembered with grateful appreciation the effective work that you did in securing a proper consideration for California products in the framing of the tariff bill. Notwithstanding the statements of the Democrats to the contrary, the tariff is still an important issue in politics. It is of particular interest to California, situated as we are some 3000 miles from market, and in these days of low prices for California's agricultural crops there has never been a time when a proper and reasonable tariff on our products has been of more importance."

Appreciation For Swing

"I feel that the people of your district can make no mistake in returning you to congress, because I know from the connections that you have made that you are in position to do valuable service for the state."

A letter that Swing's Anaheim supporters say clinches the argument, and knocks the props out from under Judge Howard's resolution, is from Congressman Albert H. Vestal, Republican whip of the House of Representatives, written to the editor of the Riverside Enterprise. This letter is the lower house of congress, and it is declared, is authoritative from party headquarters at Washington.

As Republican whip of the house, wrote Congressman Vestal, "it was my duty to try to effect a compromise on the rate provisions of the bill (referring to the tax reduction bill) to insure its passage and defeat the Garner plan. Mr. Swing not only voted for the so-called Longworth compromise, which contained the best rates it was possible for us to obtain—but he assisted me in bringing about the compromise."

"I am writing this letter to you in order that no injustice may be done Mr. Swing by any suggestion that he does not measure up as a true Republican representative from his district."

The undersigned Republicans of the harbor district, in order to centralize the efforts to secure a full vote for the Republican ticket, request all Republican voters of this vicinity to meet at the city hall on Central avenue, Friday evening, August 1, 1924, for the purpose of forming a Coolidge and Dawes club."

An official call signed by leading Coolidge men of Newport and Balboa has been sent to all Republicans in the beach cities. The call follows:

"The undersigned Republicans of the harbor district, in order to centralize the efforts to secure a full vote for the Republican ticket, request all Republican voters of this vicinity to meet at the city hall on Central avenue, Friday evening, August 1, 1924, for the purpose of forming a Coolidge and Dawes club."

NEW RESERVOIR RECOMMENDED AT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH, July 29.—To prevent a possible shortage of water in Newport Beach and to improve the situation that now exists, George P. Wilson, mayor of this city, urges the construction of a second reservoir, sufficiently large to hold 1,500,000 gallons of water.

Really a committee was appointed by the board of trustees to make a thorough investigation of the water situation and to report back to the board. The committee was headed by Mayor Wilson and the report has been completed with the following recommendations:

"We find the distributing system of the city is not adequate to supply the demand of the present population and steps should be taken at once to enlarge our mains and storage capacity."

"A second unit should be installed at the pumping plant of sufficient capacity to furnish a supply of water to inhabitants of the city in case of a break in the present unit."

"The present storage capacity of the present plant provides only for a twelve-hour supply and we would respectfully recommend that a second reservoir be constructed at the present site west of the present reservoir, with a filtration system between the two reservoirs."

"That the acreage lying between the reservoir and the street be purchased to provide additional storage capacity in the future."

Urges Pipeline Extension

"That the 14-inch wooden pipe line be extended on Fifteenth street to the State Highway bridge over the channel to the upper bay thence by a 14-inch iron pipe line to Corona del Mar. We also recommend that an assessment district composed of the newly annexed territory be formed to provide for the expense of the said line."

"That a 12-inch pipeline be constructed from the junction of the 14-inch line and Newport boulevard over the bridge of the Santa Ana river, Block 222, down the 20-foot alley, South of the Public Campground thence by Bay avenue to 'A' street, thence by a 10-inch line along Central avenue to the Peninsula tract. This will require the condemning of some property to obtain the necessary right-of-way."

"Proper arrangements should be made to connect this system, when constructed, to our present distributing system."

Newport Beach Is Asked to Release Waterfront Land

NEWPORT BEACH, July 29.—Chairman Guthrie of the executive committee of the City of Newport Beach has requested the city of Newport Beach to give up certain portions of its holdings along Newport Bay so that the county may better proceed with the calling of a harbor bond election.

Gunther, in his appeal to the city, states that if the city would straighten out its city limits running along the bay and exclude certain portions, turning that acreage over to Orange county, it would help the chances of carrying the $1,500,000 bond issues the supervisors expect to call in the fall.

It is understood that the city engineer has been instructed to obtain the necessary data and place it in the hands of the city attorney in order that the proper legal steps might be taken for the calling of a special city election.

Orange Man To Be Buried Wednesday

ORANGE, July 29.—The funeral services for the late George A. Howard, who died suddenly at the Y. M. C. A. in Long Beach last Wednesday, will be held at his home, 383 South Orange street, on Wednesday, July 30, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Howard, who was one of the founders and a director of the Citizens' Mortgage company of Los Angeles, was formerly connected with several large corporations in New York.

He was a native of Ogdensburg, New York, a relative of William H. Taft, and came to Orange seven years ago to make his home with his aunt, Miss Mary D. McDure. During his residence in Southern California, Mr. Howard made many friends through his business associations and social interests.

Dr. George D. Knights, pastor of the First Baptist church of Long Beach, will conduct the services.

Lockwood Baby Is Given to Mother

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—Ruling that "it would be unjust for this court to forever condemn a young woman for a single transgression," Circuit Judge Erwin Ossing ordered the famous Lockwood baby returned to its mother, pretty 18-year-old Fannie Lockwood, Miss Lockwood claimed the baby had been taken from her and turned over to an orphan asylum, officials of which, in turn, placed in a private family for adoption.

MODERN REBECCAS CHATTER OVER BOBBED HAIR QUESTION AT COUNTY WELL IN CANYON

LAGUNA BEACH, July 29.—Well known, indeed, is the Old Mill Stream, the Old Oaken Bucket and The Brook, made immortal by the wreaths of verbal blossoms fashioned by sentiment inspired poets. Were these places as useful, were these the County Pump in Laguna canyon?

This well is unlike the wells of olden times from where the black-eyed and sandaled Rebecas carried away the precious life-giving fluid in great stone jars perched coquettishly on their heads. The youth did not deal with the mercurial of one Gasoline as compared with another, nor did it deal with the superiority of concrete transmission mains over steel. They ever heard of a Rebecca and Rachael discussing the coming presidential election or the merits of Aliso canyon water where rheumatic elderly gentlemen are concerned? More likely the subject of conversation is bobbed hair or lip sticks.

But the canyon well is different, it is supplied with a pump with a handle worn smooth by much actual usage. The patrons of the well do not come afoot, nor do they carry the water away in huge stone jars. They often discuss the present politics, devise ways and means by which the Laguna Heights water system could be made a perfect system, leak-proof, not to speak of the quantity nor quality of water.

The introduction of the Aliso canyon water into the mains of the Laguna Heights water system marked the beginning of the popularity of the said County well. The Aliso water, though not harmful to the human system, is not exactly what one would term "good" though the word "tasty" could be applied because it contains a great deal of mineral substance, such as salts and magnesium.

A large majority of the Laguna Beach population make daily pilgrimages to this well. They travel in all modes of vehicles. Those who have no means of locomotion other than their feet, are invited to a "lift" by the more fortunate or unfortunate car owners who are bound canyonward.

Much credit is due to the thoughtfulness of the County officials for permitting the public to use this pump and thus get good drinking water into Laguna Beach.

Mr. Skidmore, manager of the Laguna Heights Water system, states that they are taking steps to furnish Laguna Beach with water of better quality than the Aliso canyon water, and hopes to have a source of supply to adequately furnish the town with all the water they wish to use.

Harbor Chamber Secretary Seeks Data on Shipping

NEWPORT BEACH, July 29.—Harry Welch, secretary of the Harbor Chamber of Commerce, is in San Francisco, making a thorough investigation of shipping conditions in the harbor. He will incorporate his findings in the report of the shipping committee of the Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Welch attended the summer school of the California Commercial secretaries and the annual convention which was held at Stanford last week. From Stanford he went to San Francisco and expected to spend three or four days obtaining information which will be useful to the shipping committee of the Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

WOMEN WRITERS PICNIC AT LAGUNA

LAGUNA BEACH, July 29.—Members of the Southern California Women's Press club celebrated their third annual picnic at Laguna Beach.

A very lovely lunch was served in the garden of the E. D. Peterson home on Laguna Cliffs. The lunch was brought by various members of the club and goes to show that besides being clever writers the women congregated were equally expert in culinary endeavors.

After lunch a number of the writers read their short stories. Mrs. Anna G. Nissen of Pasadena read a particularly clever sketch, Miss Lolita Perline read one of her scenarios. Many clever and constructive criticisms were made on all stories read. These criticisms are to help to correct weak spots in the composition and thread of the story.

Mary Richards Gray entertained the entire club at dinner at her home on Laguna Heights, from where they went to the Columbia studios where they were informally entertained.

Mrs. Emmy Matt Rush, of Los Angeles, president of the Southern California Press club, expressed her appreciation of the wonderful entertainment and the most courteous extended them by their Laguna Beach members.

There were about forty members present including some of the most brilliant short story writers in Southern California.

Union Services Continue At Brea

BREA, July 29.—Union church services in the evening will continue during August. For the past month services have been held on the Oil Workers' lot on South Pomona avenue. A vote of the people was taken at the meeting Sunday evening and it was decided to have the meetings continue during August. Last Sunday evening the music was furnished by the Christian Church choir, and the Rev. Schreier preached a splendid sermon. A different plan will be used during August. Each church will take charge of the services for one evening. As there are four churches participating in the meetings each church will have charge of the whole service. Next Sunday evening the Baptist church will have charge and the Rev. Harry Tratt will preach the sermon.

Plans for forming a silver export association to regulate the price of silver and increase the market for it throughout the world will be considered at a general conference of silver producers to be held at Salt Lake City on August 6.

LOW FLYING OF AIRPLANES IS CRITICIZED

Balboa Chamber of Commerce Goes on Record Against Practice

BALBOA, July 29.—The Balboa Chamber of Commerce has gone on record against low flying airplanes along the beach and a committee headed by George Neill, secretary of the Balboa Chamber, will ask the city board of trustees to pass an ordinance prohibiting planes from flying low. Just what distance from the earth is sufficiently safe for planes to fly will be determined by the committee through an investigation of conditions in other cities.

Recent accidents in which airplanes have fallen into crowds of pleasure seekers, or even in the business districts of cities, is responsible for the action on the part of the Balboa Chamber.

Many airplanes visit Balboa and Newport Beach and they fly but a few feet off the ground along the beaches, according to information the committee has obtained. Should something go wrong with the planes, it is pointed out, the people on the ground would have little or no chance of getting away.

The request for an airplane ordinance probably will be made at the next meeting of the board of trustees.

PLEADS GUILTY IN ROM CASE: IS FINED

FULLERTON, July 29.—Pleading to two counts of manufacturing and being in possession of intoxicating liquor, P. H. Mills, 340 East Amerige avenue, yesterday waived his right to trial by jury as previously claimed. A jury had been empaneled but was dismissed when Mills changed his plea.

Judge H. E. Hart imposed fines of $300 for each offense with the accompaniments of 90 days' jail sentences on each charge but suspended the terms contingent on good behavior, and also remitted one of the fines with a similar proviso.

Mills was arrested on July 17 following a raid on his home in which 60 bottles of beer, strong in alcoholic content, were seized, and a cask of "hard" cider. He at first announced his intention of fighting the cases to the limit.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 29.—A building permit for $42,000 was issued from the building department here, to Ridenour Brothers, contractors, for the erection of an addition to the grammar school to be used for a domestic science building.

The structure will be built immediately behind the new grammar school building, recently completed at a cost of nearly $230,000. The grammar school facilities here are the best in the state, it was declared by Clark H. Reid, principal.

Max would have been considered a doddering old gentleman in that tournament which was made up mainly of pantalooned whippers-

TILDEN'S PROTEGE
DEFEATED ON COURTLOS ANGELES, July 29.—Second round matches for the Southern California tennis championships, senior and junior, were in order
today following opening of the tournament yesterday.The main upset in the first day's matches occurred when Donald Strachen of Philadelphia, one of Bill Tilden's proteges, lost out in his first struggle toward the junior title. He was defeated by Cohn, 5-7, 9-7, 7-5. Strachen, who will practice had also entered the senior meet, was also defeated on that side when he lost in straight sets to Bill Lydalotte.Otherwise affairs ran smoothly in the opening day results. Tilden, outstanding figure of the tourney, won easily from Jones, a dropping but a single game. Chapin, the New England star, won from Jasper. Ferrandini, hope of Southern California, defeated Schoeman.Sandy Wiener, another of Tilden's group of youthful experts, advanced in both senior and junior play.

SAYSIf a ball player accepts 10 chances in the field without accusing him of a foul play, he is as one of the features of the game.
Often, if he makes three or four sensational plays, only to fall down on an easy chance that plays no part in the result, he is acclaimed one of the fielding heroes of the day.What about the umpire who in the course of the game must make anywhere from 50 to 150 rulings.
Each ruling is a play from the viewpoint of the umpire.Sitting on the New York bench the other day, prior to starting a game, Everett Scott, holder of the endurance record for continuous play, remarked to me:"How many plate decisions do you umpires figure you can miss and still call it a good day?"The query caused me to smile.
Scott smiled as he put it to me."That's rather personal," I answered, "but one of our umpires figures that it is 12 either way.""What does he mean by that either way stuff?" asked Scott.I then proceeded to explain that during the course of a game 12 pitches ruled balls were so close they might have been called strikes. Perhaps such a ruling would have been more accurate.
Likewise, 12 pitches ruled strikes might be considered balls by the team at bat.Scott who has a keen sense of humor, listened intently to my explanation of the 12 either way stuff and then replied:"That makes 24 it's possible to have kicked and still call it a good day. I am pretty sure I know the name of that umpire."

"How so?" I asked.

"Because he usually insists on taking his full quota," was the reply.Further discussion of the subject was impossible, as the bell rang to start the game.It is a peculiar fact, however, that very often an umpire by missing one ball can turn a good day's work into failure.Often I have gone for eight innings without having a ball questioned. Then in the ninth an either way ball would cause a kick. A rally by the team at bat would decide the game, which would have been impossible had the decision been a strike instead of a ball.Thus the umpire who has made 149 correct rulings out of 150 is charged with a bad day, because a debatable strike changed the result of the game. It's a great life, but you mustn't weaken.

Lead to Ring CrownNEW YORK, July 29.—A young, sharp-eyed, fiery Chilean, who started out to be a sculptor and later worked his way into the films
as a Daring Desmond in his native Santiago, is the newest wow in cauliflowerdom.Mr. Luis Vicentini by his record feat of reducing the good Rocky Kansas to a state of clammy submission in 11 rounds, has leaped blithely over the domes of Dundee, Moran, Barbarian, White and Zivich as the foremost lightweight challenger in the ring.Mr. Vicentini has something most of the other contenders lack, a destructive punch. White can punch but he is hopelessly old and worn. Mr. Vicentini is replete with youth and all the essentials that accompany it.Crude, But He Wins Vicentini's punch is somewhat of a novelty, if you are interested in technique. It is a right hander but it is as different from the orthodox right-hand punch as a squirrel's ball is from a mother's lullaby. It suggests at once the swinging effect employed by Firpo and the bee-line straightness sponsored by Mons. Carpentier. It is, in fact, a combination of the two.Vicentini's great speed and agility enable him to use this curious punch with splendid effect. In some puzzling manner or other he manages to get all his body power behind the bit at the proper moment. Old judges of boxing lift their erudite paws in high scorn.
"He hits like a bum," they say.And yet when Vicentini's monstrous mauler connects the show is over. It is the cue for the janitor to come briskly down the center aisle and sweep the debris from the middle of the ring.

least one outstanding pitcher.

Often the success or failure of a pitching staff is determined by the showing of its star.Usually as the star goes, so goes the rest of the staff.It didn't take long for the absence of Alexander from the Cubs' lineup to make itself felt. The team, particularly the pitching staff, seemed to realize that Alexander must be in there regularly.

SUSPENSERS IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Unhonored and unused, suspensers have for decades performed their indispensable service of upholding a man's dignity and, ahem! other things. What has brought them out of their cozy, colorless retirement and made them shoulder new responsibilities? Trousers that are wide and high-waisted and trousers without bottom turn-ups. These make a belt far less practical, because, with it, trousers do not hang so well and have a disconcerting trick of creasing untidily over the instep. If a waistcoat is worn, suspensers are essential to trim appearance. When trousers are roomily cut and full-draped, the even support they need all around can only be given by sus-pensers.Suspensers used to be one of the least prepossessing articles of dress, resembling a harness-like contraption. The man who wore them was furtively ashamed, bracketing them with nightgowns, hard-boiled shirts, Congress gaiters, detachable cuffs and all the other musty-fusty modes of vanished days and ways. Suspensers have come back for two reasons—the change in the cut of trousers and the fact that they are now simply made to perform a useful purpose, but also styled with color and art.Suspensers are now procurable in brilliant webbing and often sold in sets to match the colors and patterns of garters, as illustrated here.
The designs include college, club, regimental, fraternity and blazer stripes, so that they may be chosen to conform or contrast with suits, shirts, scarfs or even hatbands, though that's going pretty far. Anyway, they are a glimmer with color and color, now-a-days, is the first word in the Dictionary of Style.For the man who leaves off his waistcoat and puts on a belt, yet needs the secure support that only suspensers give, there are out-of-sight suspensers especially made to be worn under one's shirt. Instead of sliding leather or web ends, these suspensers and the folds metal clasps which engage the inside trousers buttons. Those who have of the shirt, thus doing duty unseen and unsuspected. Those who have reached the age when the hairline recedes and the waistline advances, will find such suspensers no end useful in hot weather.When You're Hot—
